

NEVADA HUMANITIES PRESENTS

GREAT BASIN

Young Chautauqua Season Begins January 17

First Workshop/Information Session
Thursday, January 17, 2013 6:30–8:30 p.m.
UNR Extended Studies Building, Room 107
1041 N. Virginia St., Reno

Nevada Humanities launches its 21st anniversary season of Great Basin Young Chautauqua on January 17, 2013, at the UNR Extended Studies Building, Room 107, 6:30–8:30 pm. Join us and learn how to select your character and explore his/her life through fun, scholarly research. Get to know Anita Watson, returning coordinator of the Young Chautauqua program, and begin your journey as a Young Chautauquan.

Young Chautauqua workshops meet approximately every other week, run through June, and culminate in youth performances at the Nevada Humanities Chautauqua festival on Monday, June 24th.

Registration for the Young Chautauqua program is open now and ongoing. For registration forms and information visit nevadahumanities.org or you can register at the first meeting on January 17. The program welcomes young people ages 8 to 18. Participation is free. Scholarships to help cover minimal program expenses, such as costumes, are available to families in need. For more information contact Nevada Humanities at 775-784-6587 or visit nevadahumanities.org.

See you there!
